Welcome to The 'FEEL REAL' texture collection, Qantas F1 edition. This project is the first in a series of NEXT LEVEL paint jobs for FS2000. No more pixelated unrealistic looking paint schemes.

It is my goal to raise the level of aircraft texturing, and soon, aircraft modeling. This Qantas F1 paint scheme is my first release of the FEEL REAL texture collection for PROJECT 747's excellent 747 400 model.

The following images represent only a small portion of what I envision graphically for the future of home aviation simming. These were created with REAL screenshots of this Qantas 747 running in FS2000, then, a photo realistic background was created behind each shot. In these screens the aircraft HAS NOT been manipulated in any way. Only the background and a few beacon lights have been added in each case.

These images are freeware. Feel free to share them with your friends. Never try to sell or publish these images without prior permission from the authors. Thank you, and ENJOY!

As you can clearly see the aircraft has remained untouched from the original screenshot. Only the background and a couple of beacon lights have been added, showing off the realism of FEEL REAL textures.

Its time to raise the level.....
